

The goal of FIP, in my mind, is to create a network of international friendships that span the college: between leaders, between freshmen, and between the leaders and the freshmen. As upperclassmen, we aspire to ensure that everyone's memories of their first few days to be a blur of excited enthusiasm (abet marred in their recollection by a fog of exhaustion). These photographs represent to me the entire process of FIP, from picking up students individually at the airport, to welcoming everyone to socializing outside on the grass of Weld. These photos radiate joy and happiness.
